4-H Club Boys and Girls Given Health Examination Here

National Title Goal Of 28 Youngsters

One of the four clovers in the 4-H Club emblem means more today to 28 youthful members as the result of physical examination by the Fayette County health department.

The clover, representing health, along with those representing head, heart and hands signifies the work of the 40 clubs throughout Fayette County which meet throughout the year for teen-age boys and girls.

In emphasizing the health part of the emblem, the national organization holds an annual contest to pick the healthiest boy and girl member in the county.

Tuesday, 28 club members, eight boys and 20 girls, took physical examinations to determine which were the healthiest youths in the county.

Next week the final contestants will be examined by the health department before the winners are selected. These winners will then compete in a statewide contest at the State Fair in Columbus in August.

The boys and girls who attended the examination Tuesday were the chosen representatives of their clubs. Each club, depending on whether it was made up of both boys and girls or just one of the sexes, sent one or two representatives to the County Health Department.

First County Exam
It was the first year Fayette County included physical examinations in the contest. Last year a committee of club advisers sent a representative to the State Fair without any previous examination.

This will be the second year the county enters the national contest, whose winner will be chosen at a country-wide meeting in November in Chicago.

Although the contest is primarily influenced by health, Mrs. Norma Campbell, home demonstration agent and Albert G. Cobb, associate county agent, said personally and club work as well as community activity also counted heavily in the final choice.

Mrs. Campbell and Cobb said they will both work with the health department in selecting the winners before the final results are determined.

They said they were both "well pleased with the participation Tuesday, as the contest also helped in abolishing the fear children have of physical examinations when they are not sick."

They said they were both "well pleased with the participation Tuesday, as the contest also helped in abolishing the fear children have of physical examinations when they are not sick."

Complete Check-up
The examinations given by the health department included a history of childhood illness, weight, height, vision and physical check-ups along with an interview for personality, general intelligence, appearance and mental adjustment.

Besides Dr. Gordon E. Savage, county health commissioner, the examinations were given by members of the health department's staff.

A four-page health examination blank on each child was filled out during the all-day session. The blank is instrumental in choosing the healthiest contestants. It includes: family history, past illness, habits and both general and special physical examinations as well as the types of food eaten by the contestant.

Girls who took part in the exam Tuesday were: Natalie McLean, Marilyn Heister, Joann Lambert, Barbara Knedler, Shirley Jo Pyle, Mary Sue Belles, Elizabeth Iden, Jo Anne Cockerill, Joan Campbell, Nancy Humphries, Charlene Fakins, Juliana Pavey, Joyce Ann Ritter, Carolyn Ann Dray, Caroline Leeth, Phyllis McCoy, Jo Ann Williams, Marquerita Smith, Ellen Belt and Shirley Vincent.

The boys were: Bill Trimmer, Dean Hawk, Russell Pegan, Irel Knedler, John Melvin, Carl Nathaniel Creamer, Kemp Alleman and Roger Pope.

Boy Drowns in Stream
WARREN, June 22—(P)—A 12-year-old boy, David G. Keasey, was drowned last night in Yankee Run, a small stream near his home at Masury. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Keasey.

Meanderings
By Wash Fayette
Mrs. Oliver Weller brought to this office Monday, two of one of the largest species of moths found in eastern United States, which she had found about her premises on the Lewis Road.

They proved to be the Cecropia, which come from a caterpillar which feeds on forest tree leaves. The large moths are varicolored and are almost as big as the Regal moth, which develops from the hickory horned devil, one of the largest caterpillars in this part of the United States.

J. S. Horney, 1017 Gregg Street, who frequently gathers everbearing strawberries in October and November, brought samples of his summer crop to the office, and said the dry weather had blasted much of the crop, but since the recent rainfall the berries are showing new life, and he is still hoping for something like a normal crop during the remainder of the season.

More Hogs Now Than Last Year, Survey Reveals

Supply of Beef And Lamb To Be Less, However

WASHINGTON, June 22—(P)—Bearing out earlier forecasts of bigger pork supplies to come, an agriculture department survey today put the 1949 spring pig crop at 59,040,000 head. This is an increase of 15 percent over last year's spring crop.

Spring pigs will provide the country's pork supply during the coming fall and winter.

The larger supplies of pork will be offset to some extent, however, by smaller supplies of beef and lamb.

At the same time, the department forecast a 1949 fall pig crop of about 37,000,000 head. This compares with the 1948 fall crop of 33,995,000 head. Fall pigs will go to slaughter market in the spring and summer of 1950.

If the fall crop forecast is borne out, the total production of pigs would be about 96,000,000 head—the largest since 1943, when a record crop of 121,800,000 was produced. Last year's production was 85,261,000 head.

In showing a spring crop of slightly more than 59,000,000, the survey supported prediction by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan that heavy fall and winter marketing of hogs may force producer prices below an average of $16.50 for 100 pounds guaranteed by the government.

Government livestock experts have said that if today's survey indicated a spring crop of more than 58,000,000 head, the supply of pork later in the year probably would be larger than consumers would buy at prices necessary to assure farmers of price guarantee.

The department said the average number of pigs saved per litter during the spring season was 6.45 compared with 6.44 last year and with 6.21 for the 1938-1947 average.

The number of hogs six months old and over on June 1, including brood sows, was reported at 22,946,000 head. This number was 800,000 head, or three percent, less than on June 1 last year.

The production of pigs by major producing states in the 1949 and 1948, respectively, spring seasons (1949 estimated) included:

Ohio 3,203,000 and 2,617,000; Indiana 4,070,000 and 3,373,000; Kentucky 1,300,000 and 1,112,000.

Elderly Lawmakers Get in Fist Fight Over Housing Bill

WASHINGTON, June 22—(P)—A punch swinging encounter between 83-year-old Rep. Sabath (D-Ill.) and Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) took place on the House floor today, touched off by dispute over the administration's housing bill.

An eye witness, Rep. Walter (D-Pa.), said Cox, who is in his 60s, slapped Sabath in the mouth and knocked off his glasses.

He said Sabath countered with a one-two right and left to Cox's face before they were parted.

The unbilled one-rounder came during a quorum call to get more members to the floor for the state of debate on the housing bill.

Walter said it began in an argument over whether Sabath would give Cox time to talk.

There had been a bitter previous debate, with Sabath jumping on the "real estate lobby" and pleading with the House to help "deserving American citizens" who are crying for housing.

She spent many nights in hotels and apartments with another man, even during the time she was seeing Gubitchev?

"That's a damned lie!" She screamed, her composure shaken one of the few times during the two-months-long case.

But later she admitted it was true, when the government gave days, dates, names. However, she insisted "I did not spend the night with him in fornication."

And The Hiss Trial
In New York, the Alger Hiss perjury case resumed after a one-day delay. It was predicted that Hiss himself might take the stand.

LITTLE 10-YEAR-OLD NATALIE McLEAN of the Millersville district goes through the first step of examination to determine healthiest 4-H Club girl in Fayette County—questioning by nurse.

NEXT STOP is on the scales in one of the health department's rooms, where Sara McAllister, county health nurse, takes a reading.

DR. GORDON E. SAVAGE probes with a light to see if Natalie's are in good condition. Her last stop will be at the eye examination station. (Record-Herald Photos)

TAX EQUALIZER APPROVED

Tax Paying Lagging Here; Jam Is Ahead

There is going to be an awful jam in the county treasurer's office before long—unless a lot of people start paying their taxes pretty soon.

And, what's more, the county may be a little short of cash later on this year—unless the folks start coming through. But, that is not giving county officials too much concern; for in the end the county would be a little better off because of the 10 percent penalty from delinquent payments. That's the law and there's nothing anyone can do about that now.

The books in the treasurer's office show there is still $126,703 due for this collection period with only 23 days left in which to pay. The deadline is July 20.

The total charge for last year's taxes—those which are collected this year—was approximately $445,000.

Of that total, a little more than $317,000 was paid during the first collection period. Many taxpayers, at that time, paid up for the entire year.

On the books for collection during this period, which started May 1, was approximately $160,000. Only about $33,000 has been paid in the month and a half just past—that's an average of less than $1,000 a day.

From here on out the payments will have to average more than $5,000 a day.

That means there is going to be a jam, a lot of waiting in line and frayed nerves and irritation for the put-it-offs.

More than 2550 tax bills were sent out for collection during this period. Some taxpayers got two or more, but the majority got only one. So, it is estimated that more than 2,000 individuals have still got their taxes to pay some time within the next 23 days.

At the treasurer's office, a suggestion for making the task easier was made—mail in the check for the full amount and enclose a self-addressed envelope for the return receipt. That would save standing in line in the jam that now appears inevitable for the closing days of the collection period.

The treasurer's staff probably would have to come back and do some night work to keep up, but it was said "we're willing if that will help."

Alabama Floggings To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, June 22—(P)—Congress and the FBI may investigate a series of beatings administered by hooded, white-robed Alabama mobs.

Some members of Congress indicated the FBI already has stepped into the picture.

There is a possibility local authorities and victims of the night riders may be summoned for questioning by a House judiciary subcommittee.

Three key members of the full committee arranged a conference for this morning to discuss the Alabama disorders.

"It seems like the klan in some instances," he said, "and in others it seems to be groups of workers."

Profits Smaller But Still High

Big Manufacturers Take Smallest Cut

WASHINGTON, June 22—(P)—Corporation profit margins for the first quarter of 1949 were below 1948 levels, but "still high, relative to earlier prosperous periods."

Reporting this today, the federal reserve bulletin defined profit margins as "the ratios of profits, before taxes, to sales."

Corporate profits in 1948 after taxes were about 10 per cent above 1947 and at the highest level on record, the board publication said.

It found these trends:

1. Almost all the profit increases in 1948 occurred in manufacturing, and then only among "the very largest" companies.

2. Small and medium-sized companies, whose profits had shown the greatest relative increases in the war and earlier postwar years, "were already experiencing sharp drops in profits in 1948."

Profits—after taxes—of manufacturing concerns with assets under $5,000,000 declined 20 per cent for 1947 to 1948 while those of concerns with assets of $10,000,000, or more rose nearly 50 per cent, said the bulletin.

In the first quarter of 1949, the article said, profits of "larger" manufacturing companies were about 15 per cent below fourth quarter 1948 figures and "only about Ten per cent larger" than in last year's first quarter.

Preparedness For Recession

COLUMBUS, June 22—(P)—An Ohio senator wants a $500,000 fund created for school and building "if private employment slackens."

Sen. David McKFerguson (R-Guernsey) made the proposal yesterday. He introduced a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to permit a fund-creating bond issue. Approval by the legislature would put the question up to voters at the polls next November.

Ferguson would earmark 35 percent of the fund for roads; 30 percent for grade crossings; 20 percent for schools; and 15 percent for county roads.

He plans to retire the bonds by an additional cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline; a flat rate assessment on trucks; and renewal of the one-cent retail sales tax on purchases between nine and 40 cents. The one-cent sales tax was removed last year.

Columbus Philharmonic To Close for One Year

COLUMBUS, June 22—(P)—The Columbus Philharmonic Association, handicapped by debts, announced today that its orchestra would not play during the 1949-50 season.

The suspension bill will enable the orchestra to pay off about $15,000 in current obligations and resume activity in 1950-51 with a clean financial slate, said Lloyd A. Pixley, president of the association's board.

Strong Foreign Policy Urged By President After Four-Power Conference Ends in Failure

WASHINGTON, June 22—(P)—Secretary of State Acheson heads for the Senate today to report on the Paris foreign ministers meeting—and probably to urge speedier action on the Atlantic Pact and a related arms program.

Acheson's return from the Paris meeting yesterday was followed by an appeal from President Truman for "no slackening" in vital phases of American foreign policy.

In a statement issued after a meeting with Acheson, Mr. Truman said:

"It must be frankly admitted that despite the forward looking program sponsored by the Western Powers as a basis for unification (of Germany), little progress was made."

The results of the meeting, he added, "reveal the correctness of the policies this government has been following in our foreign affairs."

"The results again underline the

Actress Pushing Son In Wheelbarrow from Florida to Detroit

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 22—(P)—Mrs. Julia Roka St. Clair started pushing her young son today toward Detroit in a wheelbarrow to day at his request and because she thought it would be fun.

Mrs. St. Clair, 48, a former actress and Miss Hungary of Europe in 1918, is a tourist court house-keeper.

Her son, Adolphus, 7, was born crippled. Since her separation from her husband she has devoted her time to making the boy happy.

After a recent attack of measles, he said he thought a wheelbarrow ride would be nice, and she decided to push him to Detroit for a family reunion.

Someone offered to fix the barrow with rear wheels so it would be easier pushing.

"Oh, no," she said quickly. "It wouldn't be a wheelbarrow ride, then."

They expect to make the trip of nearly 1,000 miles in a month. Adolphus will walk as much as he can, ride the rest of the way.

A canvas shelter has been rigged in case of rain. After publication of a story Saturday about the trip, Mrs. St. Clair has received offers of shelter all along the way.

Widow Back From Manhunt For Lover Who Had Gyped Her

CHICAGO, June 22—(P)—Mrs. Reseda Corrigan, 39-year-old widow, returned to Chicago last night and told of her unsuccessful week's search in New York for the confidence man she says robbed her of $5,000 after a whirlwind courtship.

Tired and disheartened, Mrs. Corrigan said she had slept and eaten little since she left home June 12 to meet the man who had disappeared with her money the day before they were to be married.

The red haired widow, mother of three teen age children, left home after receiving a telephone

Repercussions Are Predicted In Legislature

Strip Mine Control Bill Passed—FEPC Scrap Is Coming Up

COLUMBUS, June 22—(P)—A rural legislator has forecast "serious repercussions" from a bill designed to equalize real estate tax values in Ohio.

The House passed the measure 90-26 yesterday and sent it to the Senate.

"Be prepared for more repercussions on this bill than on any other measure by this assembly," Rep. Elton Kile (R-Madison) warned the House.

"It is a departure from the method of assessing real property where the assessing is done by local taxing authorities. This bill puts the assessing authority in the hands of state officials and you will find that all the revisions will be upward," Kile said.

The measure requires the state board of tax appeals to equalize tax values between counties, county units or certain classes of property on a percentage basis. Individual properties could not receive higher or lower valuation.

The state could withhold half its local government and school subsidies to any county if its auditor failed to heed board orders to equalize appraisals within 90 days. Equalization Is Aim

Rep. Fred L. Hoffman (R-Hamilton) said the bill is designed only to equalize duplicates, not to raise taxes generally. He sponsored the measure.

Hoffman pleaded for removal of tax inequities before time for Ohio to levy a tax for servicing World War II veterans bonus bonds. Failure to equalize taxes will make some districts pay more than their proportionate share, he explained.

Rural members cast most of the 29 votes against it.

The Senate reconsidered and passed 25-0 a bill defeated Monday night. The House-approved measure proposes $1,000 fines and a year in jail for people harboring child fugitives of institutions. Senators passed the bill after parents were exempted from the penalty.

The House-passed bills met Senate approval. One allows school boards to issue construction bonds to 8 percent of the district tax duplicate for two years. The other permits county sewer district charges to become liens against property served.

Other Bills Acted On
Measures passed by the Senate and sent to the House would:

Let counties issue water, sewer and garbage collection bonds and retire them from operating revenues of the systems.

Permit use of county veterans (Please Turn to Page Eleven)

Bids Opened Wednesday For Clinton Hospital

WILMINGTON, June 22—(P)—Bids will be opened today on the proposed $900,000 Clinton Memorial Hospital, Board Chairman T. S. Townsley announced. A 22-foot section of a wing of the hospital was cut from the plans yesterday to bring the cost of construction within the limit of available funds.

Scout Leaders Plan New Cabin

Coordinating Meet Sets Finishing Date

Leaders of the Boy Scouts, Cubs and Campfire Girls got together Tuesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce office with Grove Davis for their first coordinating meeting in planning the new scout outdoor lodge.

According to the present arrangements, the leaders hope to have the lodge completed and ready for use after July 4.

Davis, who has donated the land and much of the material for the cabin, met with the group to tell them his ideas on its use and proposed site.

The lodge will be a one-room affair with an enclosed screen porch and a fire place. Outdoor ovens will be built nearby after the building, itself, is completed.

According to Paul Van Voorhis, district chairman of the Boy Scouts, the lodge will be used as a meeting place on weekend trips, but will not be slept in until the winter months. Until that time, he said, the campers will continue to use their pup tents.

Although plans for the outdoor cabin were not laid until Robert James, assistant commissioner for the Cubs discussed the project with Davis less than a month ago, the foundations for the building are already completed, Van Voorhis said.

Now the leaders are piling lumber and getting equipment ready during the evenings for July 4, when all of the groups will have a picnic at the cabin site and complete the construction.

During the meeting Tuesday evening, the leaders appointed various officials to be in charge of the details in the construction. Floyd Swackhamer and Robert James will supervise the actual work with Davis and prepare a schedule of work for the various organizations, Robert Bishop and Maurice Hopkins will be in charge of stock-piling the lumber. John Rhodes will act as purchasing agent and Ed Jones will organize the work groups.

Clinton Hospital Reduced by Board

Because the lowest bids were $100,000 above available funds when the bids for Clinton County's Memorial Hospital were opened recently, the board decided to cut 22 feet off on one wing and revise other specifications to come within the funds on hand.

The new bids were opened Wednesday at the noon hour, and it was expected that the revised bids would make it possible for the board to award the contract. Total funds are about $900,000.

Plans call for a 65-bed hospital.

Mrs. L. W. Heinlein Dies in Bloomingburg

Mrs. L. W. Heinlein, 87, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Urvin Edwards, in Bloomingburg, at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday morning. She had been in failing health for about nine years.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Urvin Edwards, and a granddaughter, Ruby Edwards, both of Bloomingburg. Her husband preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be held at the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church at 2 P. M. Friday, with burial to follow in the Bloomingburg cemetery.

Sheridan's Restaurant will go back to counter service Thursday after two years as a cafeteria, according to Lee Sheridan, owner.

Sheridan said the restaurant, which opened in 1944, was converted two years ago because of the shortage of help.

Although the formal opening for the counter and table service will not be until Thursday, Sheridan said the cafeteria was taken out Tuesday and counter service started Wednesday.

For the last two years Sheridan has had a small lunch counter in the rear of the restaurant, but he said the lunch counter now extended down the entire side of the establishment.

strawberry and hay crops reduced because of the long hot spell.

Some communities in New York have taken steps to conserve water. Filtration equipment was flown last night to Gasport in western New York from Providence, R. I., to treat water from an impounded creek dam. The village's water supply from wells has dwindled 20 percent. Scattered showers fell in parts of the state.

The danger of forest fires prompted Gov. Paul A. Dever of Massachusetts to ban hunting and fishing in the state forests, effective today. Similar restrictions already have been ordered in forests in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Perley I. Fitts, New Hampshire agricultural commissioner, said it was not possible to determine crop losses. He added, however, it would be "terrible" if there is no relief from the drought. Farmers in some parts of New Hampshire and Massachusetts have reported their wells running dry.

Three days of intermittent rain temporarily relieved the forest fire danger in Maine, but clear and warmer weather was forecast.

The New Jersey agriculture department said the crop outlook, despite the month-long drought, appears "favorable." Officials said indications now are that only the oats crop will fall below the 1948 output.

Foreign Policy

ern Powers have made in setting up a democratic government in their occupation zones made real progress toward German unification "impossible."

The American delegation, he said, "went to Paris with the serious intention of developing a constructive program which would meet the requirements for all of Germany and would safeguard the interests of all four powers in insuring that Germany would achieve its reconstruction along peaceful and democratic lines."

But, he added, the Western powers would not compromise the "democratic principles" they considered necessary for all Germany nor would they "jeopardize the basic freedoms" already existing in western Germany "merely to obtain a nominal political unity."

Mr. Truman said the Russians wanted to go back to the Potsdam system of four-power control over all Germany—a system which he said they themselves "had rendered unworkable by their misuse of the unlimited veto."

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, June 22—(P)—President Truman now has sent seven plans to Congress for overhauling, or reorganizing, the government.

He did that yesterday. And they're important, although they're only the first in a series of plans he'll offer, some this year, some next year.

Since the story of reorganizing the government is complicated, here is an ABC on what happened and what lies ahead. There are three main points:

The study and recommendations made by the Hoover commission; the reorganization act passed by Congress; the plans to be offered by Mr. Truman.

This government, with 2,100,000 employees, is the biggest business in the world but is less efficient than many, maybe most, businesses.

It has grown as the population grew and the needs of the people increased. Bureaus, agencies, and commissions shoot off in all directions.

Since President Taft first tried it in 1912, a number of attempts have been made to put the government's House in order. None was thorough.

Two years ago Congress decided to do a real job of it. It created a 12-man commission, headed by former president Hoover.

This was non-political. The commission was composed of Democrats and Republicans. A Republican Congress created it. Mr. Truman blessed it.

Its purpose: to study the whole government and offer recommendations to make it run better and cheaper.

About 300 experts helped the commission look for sick spots. Early this year the recommendations began coming out in the form of reports.

The commission produced 18 reports and 287 recommendations, major, some minor. The next move was up to Congress.

Unless it gave the president power to put the recommendations into effect, or some of them, they'd die on the vine.

So last week Congress passed an act giving the president power to reorganize the executive branch of the government.

It didn't give him power to tamper with the other two branches: the legislative (Congress) or the judiciary (the courts). The Hoover Commission examined only the executive branch.

And yesterday Mr. Truman signed the act into law. It's not a blank check, leaving him free to do anything he wishes about the executive branch. There's a rein on Mr. Truman. For example:

First he must offer his reorganization plans to Congress. (He offered the seven plans yesterday after signing the act into law.)

Then he must wait 60 days to see what Congress thinks. If Congress doesn't act within 60 days to kill the plan, Mr. Truman can go ahead with it.

Under the reorganization act Mr. Truman can abolish or shift agencies created by Congress. But—he can't interfere with or take away any of the powers that belong to Congress.

Farm Income Is On Decline

Iowa Heads List For Cash Return

WASHINGTON, June 22—(P)—Farm income for the first four months this year was lower in every midwestern state than for the corresponding 1948 period, the agriculture department reported.

Iowa led the midwestern group as well as the entire nation, with cash receipts of $731,350,000 from farm marketings in the January-April stretch last year the total was $747,040,000.

Illinois was second for the four months, with $541,995,000, yet this ran $74,000 less than for the 1948 period. This was a smaller loss than for any of the other midwestern states.

California and Texas, the biggest farm states outside the middle west, came third and fourth, with $503,505,000 and $447,474,000 respectively. California, gradually creeping up on par setting Iowa, reported an increase of around $28,000,000 over last year.

After the top four states this year came: Minnesota, fifth, $362,882,000; Nebraska, sixth, $334,655,000; Wisconsin, seventh, $293,593,000; Ohio, eighth, $274,549,000; Indiana ninth, $269,121,000; and Missouri, tenth, $268,290,000.

Eleventh and twelfth went to Pennsylvania, with $254,007,000, New York, with $250,969,000 then came Kansas, thirteenth, $240,209,000 and Michigan, fourteenth, $196,650,000.

South Dakota was eighteenth with $158,304,000 and North Dakota was 25th with $108,375,000.

The agriculture department said without giving a breakdown by states that livestock receipts for the first five months of 1949 have averaged nine percent lower than those of 1948, and a little below 1947.

Crop receipts so far in 1949 have remained about the same as in 1948 but have averaged about five percent higher than in 1947, the department said.

First Half Down Too

The net income of farmers in the first half of 1949, is probably running at least 10 percent below the same period last year, the department of agriculture estimated.

Cash receipts from farm operations and probably the gross income of farmers, will be down only about seven percent. But the experts estimated that farmers' production expenses haven't fallen as fast as their income so it will leave them less profit. They said the cost of items the farmers have to buy is down only about three percent.

The report by the bureau of agricultural economics estimated the farmers are receiving about $11,900,000,000 from marketings this year, compared with $12,800,000,000 in the first six months of 1948. Farmers sold more than they did in the first six months of 1948 but prices were down about 10 percent.

Receipts from livestock were estimated at around $7,400,000,000 ten percent less than in the first half of 1948, and crop receipts were estimated at $4,500,000,000, three percent more than in 1948.

Do We Know Much About Our Blessings?

Sometimes we wonder if many of us, not only here in Fayette County but over the whole country, really understand what freedom of opportunity we have.

In the past dozen years or more there seems to be so much confusion and fighting over what we can "grab" off the government, or what we can obtain under the theory of "something for nothing" if we vote the way we are urged to do, or whether we can't manage to make our bosses give us a 30-hour week with 48 hours pay, that we are almost completely losing sight of the old time urge toward perfection in craftsmanship, thrift and ambition for achievement.

In this connection we were interested recently in some newspaper comment about four German labor leaders who visited this country.

They were amazed by the freedom Americans have, and the wide spaces in which to move around and exercise it. They also were properly impressed by the wealth of America and the opportunities of the individual to acquire it. "They" were those four German labor leaders who have been in America studying labor-management relations, in search of information which might be helpful in rebuilding the German federation of labor unions, which was pretty much devastated by the Nazi regime and the war.

In places where they visited they may have done as much good for America as they may later be able to do for Germany. Their reactions to American life ought to open the eyes of a few of the Americans who take for granted our freedom and wide spaces and opportunities. The German visitors would probably be amazed at the number of Americans who don't really appreciate these things, because they don't really know America.

In the summer months most Americans will be taking vacation trips. Some may only move from the city to the country, or vice versa, for a week, while others may go from one coast to the other. Some will cross the borders into Canada and Mexico, others will take to the seas. Wherever they go, most vacationers will become a little better acquainted with the geography of America. A moment should be taken, too, for appreciating the freedom that goes with all that geography.

Danger At The Grassroots

Robert Kazmayer, the well known lecturer and commentator, recently made a penetrating observation on our internal weakness. He said: "The real danger in the U.S. today lies not in Washington, but at the grassroots. Governments have always tended to usurp more and more power unto themselves. In every free organization there is the seed of tyranny. That's why eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. The real danger in the U.S. lies with the millions who are apathetic. Democracy is going by default. Men and women are being promised by their government things—things which that government cannot deliver, not over any protracted period of time—for no government can go on promising more and more people more and more of everything, without telling anyone that someone has to pay the bills. Lulled into a false security by these promises men are exchanging their liberties, their initiative, their dignity, their heritage as free men, for a bunch of theories, most of which are imported from countries which are already dependent on the U.S. for support."

There's no sense in kicking at the government, as if it were something separate and apart from us. The government is what we make it by the public servants we elect to office. In late years, there has been a disgraceful increase in the "gimmie" attitude indulged in by individuals, by local governments, and by various groups, all seeking special favors and benefits. This represents the "get-something-for-nothing" psychology in its worst form. And it is exactly the kind of thing which starves freedom and fattens tyranny.

Where Nobody Shouts: 'Sieg Heil'

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—(AP)—Memories of Europe revisited:

There was an old German selling flowers in front of the press camp in Frankfurt. He held a rose in his mouth while making change for a customer.

"Ten years ago," said someone, "they took the bit in their teeth. Now look—it's flowers."

How to lose friends and alienate allies department: It happened after midnight at the Savoy in London. It was one of those international gatherings at which people would rather say something brittle and clever than something true.

They were deep in scotch and their own frustrations, and talking about things they didn't know—just to get in the knife blade and hurt each other.

"You wouldn't have had an air force without our Rolls Royce engine," said the Englishwoman. "You Americans are the greatest warmongers in the world."

"No, you British are," said an American. "Who are the greatest warmongers—we or the Americans?" asked the Englishwoman, turning to a friend.

"The Americans, of course," murmured her friend. "You're just mad," said the American, "because you don't have anything left to warmonger with."

Wonder what the soldiers in the allied cemeteries would say to either of them?

There is one French town above all others that symbolizes the war to hundreds of thousands of American troops. It is St. Lo, where Hitler's western wall in Normandy was finally breached.

So badly was the town battered from ground and air that there was talk of leaving it, ruined and empty, as an eternal monument of the war—and the price of war.

But the people of St. Lo wanted to come home, and they did. Helped by American generosity, they have made an astonishing recovery. Most of the rubble has been cleared. Entire sections have been rebuilt.

We stood in a churchyard there one Sunday recently—a group of former war correspondents—before a bronze bust erected to the memory of Maj. Thomas Howie, the "Major of St. Lo."

Howie had wanted to be the first man into the town. After he fell in action, troops of the 29th Infantry Division carried out his wish. They took his flag-draped body along with the entering task force, and laid it in honor by the church.

As we stood there reminiscing an eerie wail split the air—the scream of an air raid siren. Instinctively we started to duck for a ditch. Then, sheepishly, we realized the siren was only signalling the noon hour.

But as long as it sounds—and the monument to Major Howie stands—the people of St. Lo will remember the war every day.

Smear--For Good of the Country

By George E. Sokolsky

I received a postcard from a reader who is either too shy or too cowardly to sign his name to his judgment. Nevertheless, what he writes is interesting because it is indicative of a total misunderstanding of our constitutional institutions, with an over-emphasis on the importance of the executive official. This is what the card says:

"Your pal, Hicken looper, doesn't seem to be doing very well in his smear attack on Lillenthal, does he? Tsch! Tsch!"

The writer apparently does not understand that one of the most important functions of Congress is to investigate conditions in the United States with a view to perfecting legislation. As a matter of fact, every executive of government should be under constant scrutiny by Congress, particularly when his office, including the presidency, comes up for appropriations. The founding fathers were extraordinarily wise and prudent when they placed the power of the purse in Congress and the power of confirmation in the Senate because they thus assured that executive officers of government would not be able to do secretly what the people would not have them do publicly. Also the Senate was given the power of ratification of treaties, which they also may withhold, thus making it difficult, if not impossible, for the president to pursue his private ends or personal whims in foreign relations.

Sometimes executive officials evade these protective provisions. For instance, Mr. Roosevelt entered into a series of agreements at Teheran and Yalta which were not in treaty form and therefore were never ratified by the Senate. Concerning the Teheran agreements, he made the following untrue statements:

"Of course, we made some commitments. We most certainly committed ourselves to very large and very specific military plans which require the use of all allied forces to bring about the defeat of our enemies at the earliest possible time."

"But there were no secret treaties or political or financial commitments."

Had he been required to put the Crimean (Yalta) arrangements in the form of a treaty, the far eastern terms, particularly those giving to Soviet Russia Japan's rights in Manchuria and possession of the Kurile Islands, that treaty would never have been ratified by the Senate.

In the matter of the Atomic Energy Commission, the situation is even tighter. Congress, by the bill bringing this commission into existence, appointed a permanent watch-dog committee, to supervise the work of the commission. This committee of Congress is entitled, by law, to all the data available to the commission and it is empowered at all times

Diet and Health New Treatment Found For Warts

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

AS a rule, warts are about as harmless as it is possible for a disorder to be. Except when located on the soles of the feet, they do not cause pain. If they were not so disfiguring, it is doubtful if many would seek medical aid in getting rid of them.

While a number of methods of treating warts have been suggested, none has proved satisfactory in all cases. One wart can be removed by the electric needle, but where a whole crop of these unsightly growths is present, as is often the case with children, this method is not satisfactory.

For this reason, there have been many attempts to get rid of warts by using preparations which can be given by mouth. These include magnesium, sulfate, arsenic, and mercury preparations. Varying success has accompanied the attempts to treat warts through injections, into a muscle, of preparations of bismuth.

In Tablet Form Recently, a number of patients with warts were treated by giving them a substance known as sodium bismuth triglycollamate by mouth. The preparation was given in tablet form after meals. The dose varied, depending upon the number of warts.

Of 14 patients treated, eight were completely cured, four showed improvement and, in two cases, there was no improvement. In two other instances, the treatment had to be stopped because the patients could not tolerate the drug. However, in one of these, the warts disappeared entirely two weeks after treatment was stopped and, in the other, there was a great deal of improvement at the time the drug was stopped.

It would seem that this form of treatment, of giving bismuth preparation by mouth, is excellent in some cases, and is worthy of a thorough trial, particularly in those cases where the patient has a large number of warts.

Warts may be located on the hands, where they may be injured and result in bleeding. These warts should, of course, be eliminated as quickly as possible.

When warts are present, it is always a good plan to consult a skin specialist for treatment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS L. R.: What causes furring of the tongue?

Answer: This condition may be due to wasting of the lining membrane of the tongue. It might be due to infection of the tongue. In many cases, there is no evidence of any abnormality found.

It would be well to have an examination made by a physician to determine the cause of the trouble in your case.

It Is The Second Mile The Swimming Pool Drive Needs Persons Willing To Walk The Second Mile

Now is the time we need to give our very best effort to reach the $40,000 goal—to build the swimming pool this year! Many substantial gifts already have been volunteered. Things look most encouraging.

The need is for you to give your own gift first. Then you can and will encourage others to give generously. It is the second mile which calls for you to put the enthusiasm and spirit which you felt in giving to get another to give.

That is the test, to give of yourself first, and not just money alone. The swimming pool will be achieved only when our hearts, heads and hands are working for it. You can count on the pocketbooks and check books to come through and do their part, when your spirit first is right.

Who, besides yourself, will you help to visualize the worthwhileness, and unusual merit, of a swimming pool for our boys and girls? Gifts are needed now! Gifts need to be in a spirit of really wanting to enrich the lives of our young people. We need to share with them generously, in accordance with our capacity. The young people of this community are counting on you not to let them down.

Pike Extension Is To Start Soon

Toll Super-Road
To Go to Ohio Line

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 22—(AP)—Construction of a 66.7 mile extension of Pennsylvania's worldfaced toll road to the Ohio line will start this fall.

Gov. H. Duff announced this along with the final and official route for the new four-lane high-speed highway that may cost as much as $60,000,000. It will extend the toll road from one end of the state to the other.

The original turnpike, built with seven tunnels through the Alleghenies, links Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, an eastern extension now is well under way to Philadelphia at a cost of $75,000,000.

Duff told newsmen that planning for the western extension has progressed so that the turnpike commission "will be ready very shortly to start talking with bond houses on the matter of selling bonds."

Duff said all the contracts on the eastern extension—99.9 miles between Middlesex and King of Prussia, Montgomery County, a Philadelphia suburb—will be let by mid-July. The state highways department will start work this year on a new four-lane free road from King of Prussia to the city line of Philadelphia.

First work on the western extension will be from Irwin to Monroeville, Allegheny County, on U. S. Route 22, near Pittsburgh.

"This means," Duff explained, "immediate access from both these cities (Philadelphia and Pittsburgh) to the turnpike."

The governor said the Irwin-Monroeville section of the western extension will be opened to traffic as soon as it is completed, adding that should be next summer.

He added the official route for the western extension "begins at a point on the Pennsylvania-Ohio state line near Honey Creek Valley, Lawrence County, approximately 0.4 mile east from Petersburg. It follows a southeasterly line from the approximately 13.0 miles, crossing Jordan Run northeast of the town of New Galilee and will pass within 10 miles of Pittsburgh."

A profusion of summer flowers decorated the home of Mrs. William C. Allen, Sr., on Hopkins Street, on Tuesday evening when she entertained the members of the Tuesday Kensington Club with an almost perfect attendance.

Informal visiting which is so much enjoyed by the members who are all close friends of long years standing, was enjoyed and plans for the annual picnic to be held in July were completed. Mrs. Courtney S. Haver, club president, appointed as committee chairmen for the event, recreation, time and place, Mrs. Frank S. Jackson; transportation, Mrs. John B. Morton; food, Mrs. John Maciver, Mrs. Edgar Snyder, Mrs. Walter Ellis and Mrs. Morton, with each chairman to choose their assistants.

Later Mrs. Allen seated her guests at one long table in the dining room for the serving of a tempting dessert course. A beautiful arrangement of pink roses made up the central floral adornment for the beautifully appointed table covered with a lace cloth.

Mrs. O. D. Farquhar assisted Mrs. Allen in the serving.

Just Suited to Sun Worshiper

By DOROTHY ROE
NEW YORK—The godmother of the American sweater girl has done it again.

Ruth Merzon, originator of the "falsies" which supply curves in the right places to those inadequately equipped by nature, now has turned her attention to beautifying the American male. Having built her famous "falsies" into everything from bathing suits to nightgowns, sprightly little Mrs. Merzon now is branching out into the field of men's beach wear.

Her latest invention is a "sun filter coverall" of filmy nylon marquisette, to prevent sunburn and to make men as well as women look spectacular on the beach.

So if you see what appears to be a man from Mars stalking the beach this summer in transparent pajamas and a Foreign Legion headdress, dress, don't be alarmed. It may be your own husband, wearing Mrs. Merzon's latest creation.

The garment consists of loose pajama type jacket and trousers tightly cuffed at wrist and ankle plus a diaphanous turban arrangement, worn over swimming trunks. The effect, though startling, is practical, says Mrs. Merzon, whose theories are graphically expressed by her sidekick, Ruth L. Fisk:

"Many men, especially the fair-haired and fair-skinned are likely to look like boiled lobsters after a day in the broiling sun at the beach. This coverall sun filter protects the skin from dangerous sunburn as well as insect bites and such.

"It may be worn also by sportsmen during camping trips, to protect them from insect bites while asleep. It would be wonderful in the tropics."

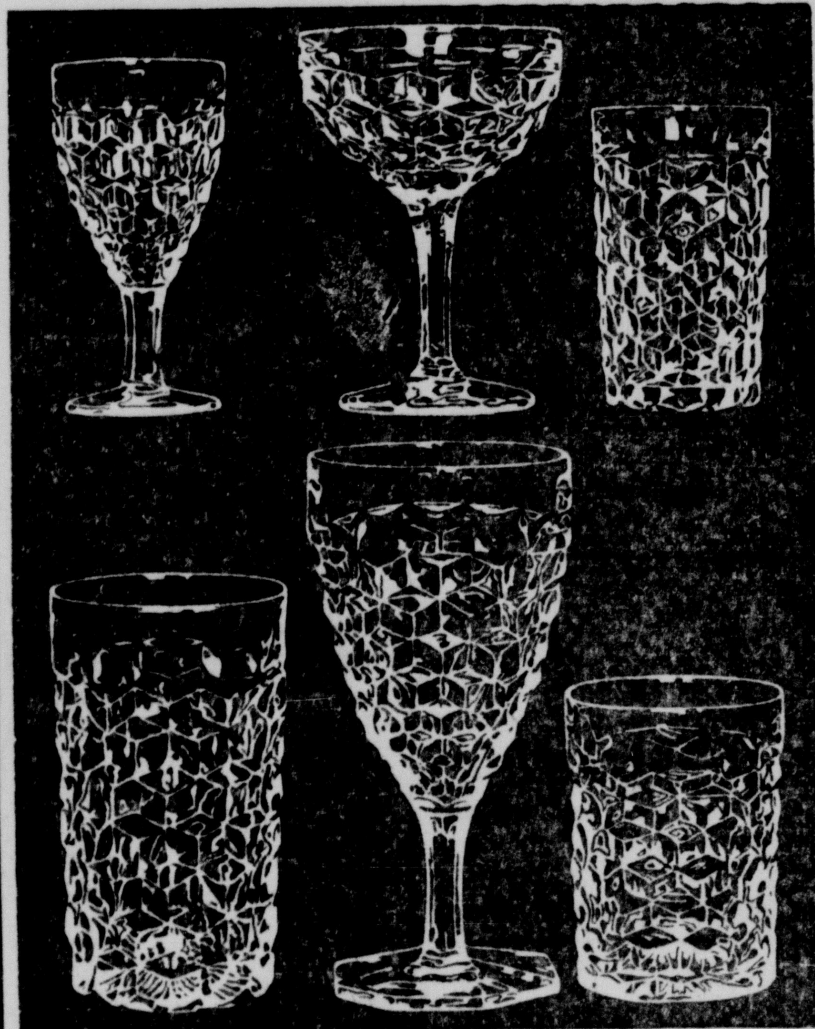

The pair also have worked out a companion sun filter for women, equally Mars-life in appearance, and consisting of circular tie-on skirt, cape and head veil of black nylon marquisette, to be worn over a bathing suit for the same purpose. Explains Mrs. Fisk:

"Society demands that not only the beautiful bare young bodies should appear on the beach; men and women of uncertain ages must take special care in their beach grooming. The sun filter coverall not only protects against painful sunburn, but also camouflages ugly skin blemishes, varicose veins, heavy arms or legs, ceiling figure defects and revealing only the most attractive features."

The new sun filter beach attire is fire resistant, so that smokers need have no alarm. The feminine coverall does not come equipped with falsies; its transparency makes such a step impractical. But Mrs. Fisk hastens to explain:

"The correct curves, of course, can always be built into the bathing suit."

Wonderful Time At Girls' State

Delegates Learn About Government

Robin Newhouse is having a "wonderful time" at the Girls' State in Columbus and the "food is marvelous."

That's what she told her mother, Mrs. G. K. Newhouse, when she telephoned Tuesday afternoon to tell her parents the inauguration ceremonies were to be held at 8 P. M. Wednesday at Mees Hall.

Robin, who will be a senior next fall when she returns to her classes at Washington C. H. High School, was nominated for council while standing in line to register soon after she arrived. She was elected to council in the subsequent voting, and will be inaugurated Wednesday night.

Bubbling with enthusiasm when she telephoned, Robin told her mother she already had learned more than she ever thought possible about the workings of government machinery.

Robin admitted she was hot—and maybe a little tired—but was having a "wonderful time." She had not even been home since she left the previous week to attend the Y-Teen Camp near Akron with Jean Perrill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Perrill of the Devalon Road.

Joan Sears, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Sears of Jeffersonville, is the other delegate from Fayette County at the Girls' State.

Ann Vincent, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vincent of New Holland also is attending as a Pickaway County delegate.

What Robin told her mother about the "wonderful time" also goes for the other girls. The only trouble is that they all are so busy they have not time enough to get together much.

The Girls' State, made up of girls from all over Ohio, is to come to an end this week. Sunday the new-made friends of the week will say their goodbyes and scatter to go home Sunday.

The Girls' State is a project supported by the American Legion Auxiliary of the state.

The Legion sponsors a Boys' State which is now in session at Delaware with more than 900 boys from all over Ohio there.

Hunters Burn Tree And Pay $25 Each

Roy Staley and Clarence Adkins, of Pickaway County, have learned a new trick in hunting raccoons, or rather they have learned that to pull the trick is expensive sport.

The pair decided to set fire to a tree in order to force a raccoon out, and applied a match.

The tree burned. The raccoon escaped. The owner of the tree was angry. Officials were notified. Staley and Adkins were ferreted out and taken into court, where the judge decided $25 and costs was about right for the offense, and that is what they paid.

Runaways Rounded Up In Fayette County

Three runaways from the State Institution for Feeble-minded Youth, at Orient, were rounded up by Sheriff Orland Hays, upon a tip from Madison Mills, Tuesday, and the trio was brought to this city and later turned over to the officials of the institution.

The trio, all colored, had run away from the institution during Monday night, and their actions at Madison Mills led to the sheriff being notified.

The boys were Sylvester Duncan, LeRoy Williams and Lewis Hart.

Rotarians Hear Fishing Expert

Problems Discussed By Conservationist

With summer going full blast, the Rotary Club turned to thoughts of Izaak Walton and "The Compleat Angler" Tuesday afternoon when its members heard a talk by William Kah of the state conservation department.

Kah spoke on fishing in the state and the problems of keeping streams well stocked as the Rotarians met for their weekly luncheon meeting of the Country Club.

Talking about better fishing facilities, Kah briefly outlined the work of the past and present before telling what the conservation department hoped to do in the future.

He said fishing, from the department's standpoint, was a trial and error method, just as it is in other states.

"Although there is a great public demand for more fish," Kah said, "we have found that the problem is not the scarcity of fish, but instead, often the large number of under-sized species."

"That is the reason," he added, "that Ohio's fishing laws have been liberalized. Now, there are many streams where the only restrictions are that the fisherman have a license and not use more than two rods."

Kah said 900,000 licenses have been issued to fishermen in the state this year.

Stocking Streams

The conservationist then told how the department keeps streams stocked and the problems which are being solved in keeping the fish healthy. He said that in the past the department dammed up several small creeks with special dams, but that this proved to be unsatisfactory as the dams filled with silt and the fish either broke through or the water became polluted.

In the past, he said, the department also put small fish into the streams, but this too turned out to be unsatisfactory, as only a small minority of the fish survived to maturity.

Today, Kah said, the fish that are placed in the streams are half-size and have been brought up in hatcheries on natural foods, so that they will live after being released.

Kah added that the conservation department also made more thorough surveys of the streams before stocking them with fish. According to the conservationist, the degree of pollution is determined before any fish are released in any specific stream.

Streams Checked
Besides checking for pollution, he said the bottom, vegetation and flow of the stream also was looked into. In line with this, Kah said

Hitler's Yacht On Exhibition

Luxurious Craft Now in New York

NEW YORK, June 22—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's sumptuous $4,000,000 yacht was on public exhibition here today for charity's sake.

The Grille, a 3,873-ton craft, one of the world's largest yachts, docked here yesterday after dipping her flag to the Statue of Liberty and emitting three saluting blasts on her whistle.

George Arida, Lebanese owner, who bought her from the British admiralty, said the vessel will be open to the public for a small fee and that nine charities will benefit, including a Jewish organization.

The vessel carried a cosmopolitan crew of 60, including four former German crew members who had been cleared by the British to help handle the intricate machinery of the ship.

Chief Engineer Emil Wessel, who served on the ship when Hitler, Goering, Hess, Goebbels and other Nazi bigshots sailed on her, said Hitler was a poor sailor and that he disliked the sea.

"Goering did not like the sea

One of the 22 cabins bore the German words for "guest room." Arida said it is believed it was for Eva Braun, Hitler's girl friend, because it was decorated in her favorite color, pastel green.

The vessel had a bar shaped in the form of a globe, but Wessel said Hitler's admirals drank only soda when the fuhrer was aboard.

Arida said he would take the ship to Washington after a visit here.

The word grille means "whim."

Iowa Senator Asks Iowa Hogs Be Spared Test

New Farm Program Experiment Meets Harsh Criticism

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—Rep. Jensen (R-Ia.) doesn't want Agriculture Secretary Brannan to use Iowa hog producers as guinea pigs to test his proposed farm program.

"I am sure," Jensen told a reporter, "that farmers are not hankering to get possibly two-thirds of the value of their hogs at the market and then wait months and possibly years for Congress to appropriate reject requests for the balance."

Brannan asked a Senate agriculture subcommittee for authority to try out his plan on hogs for the rest of this year.

Under this, hog prices would be allowed to drop to their "natural" level on the open market, with the treasury paying hog producers for any difference between the market price and pre-determined support price.

"Any school child knows the new deal will be out of power when checks from the Federal Treasury are stopped," Jensen said. "The fair deal knows that only too well and that is the main purpose of the socialized Brannan farm proposal."

The Iowan said that from the standpoint of the consumer, "the Brannan plan is political trickery." He added:

"We all know that the consumer pays every penny of our cost of government, for the simple reason that he has no one on which to shift his tax load."

Local, state and federal government, Jensen said, is "costing the average family over $1,300 a year now in direct and indirect taxes. In other words, 32 percent of everything the consumer buys today is taxes."

History records, he said, that no capitalist country has survived when 35 percent of the cost of goods represents taxes. "We're getting so we are just three percent away from financial destruction."

A House agricultural subcommittee is considering a bill by Jensen which provides for taking crops which are in surplus out of production and putting sufficient acres into grass, hayland and woodland.

"This would avoid surpluses beyond the government's ability to support," he said, "and would enable us to maintain our full 90 percent of parity for basic farm products."

The baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Roffey was reported suffering with "possible pneumonia." She was placed in an oxygen tent at the hospital, after oxygen had been administered during the fast trip with State Patrolman A. M. Monas at the wheel of the patrol car.

Children's Day Services Set for Christian Church.

Children's Day services at the First Christian Church will be combined with the concluding session of the daily vacation Bible school and a program presented at 7:30 P. M. next Friday.

Each child who has been attending the vacation Bible school will have some part in the program, the announcement said.

Highest attendance in the Bible school was 119 at last Friday's session although attendance has been high during the entire school.

The Children's Day service was set for Friday evening since several church members indicated they would be out of town Sunday.

Four departments—beginners, primary, junior and intermediate—will take part in the exercises and special music. Following the program, an opportunity will be offered for those present to see the handiwork, scrapbooks and the other displays of the students.

Stories of Hitler's Love Life Revived by New German Book

By HERMAN M. TIMM

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 22—(AP)—A new German book published in Germany alleges that Hitler killed his niece, Angela Raubal, in 1932 after he learned that she was to become the mother of his child.

The book is a biography of Fritz Michael Gerlich, German newspaper publisher who died in Dachau concentration camp in 1934 for opposing the Nazis.

Author of the book is Baron Erwein Von Aretin, a close acquaintance of Gerlich.

Baron Von Aretin claims that Gerlich knew of Hitler's guilt. He says Gerlich passed his knowledge to another Dachau prisoner who survived.

But the prisoner who is supposed to have received the story from Gerlich is not named. And no documentary evidence to support the murder charge is contained in the book.

Sensational rumors about Hitler's alleged love of his Austrian niece circulated for several years.

Officially, her death was listed suicide.

However, Baron Von Aretin charges in his book that the Nazis suppressed the true facts of the case and sent to concentration camp all persons who had knowledge of it.

Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Hitler's minister of the interior who was hanged at Nuremberg for war crimes, was said to have handled the suppression of the police records of the girl's death.

Hitler was not yet in power when his niece died. But the book says his power in Bavaria was already enough to force Munich police to drop their investigation and to list Angela's death as suicide. News stories about it were suppressed.

According to the book Hitler shot Angela Raubal in his Munich flat in 1932. But it does not describe the shooting or name any witnesses.

The book says the girl's piano teacher knew of the murder, -- and died in the same concentration camp as Gerlich. The piano teacher is not named. Nor is it related how he learned of the shooting.

It is an unchallenged fact that the 25-year-old brunette daughter of Hitler's half-sister, had been living in Hitler's home since 1928. She attended the University of Munich, and was his companion at many social events.

At one time she was engaged to marry Emil Maurice, Hitler's personal chauffeur and No. 2 man in his elite corps, the SS.

Maurice told the Associated Press a year ago that Hitler ordered Angela to break the engagement and threatened to quit supporting her and her mother if she did not obey. She obeyed.

"He was very jealous of her," said Maurice, now in a Nazi internment camp.

But Maurice said he knew nothing about the circumstances of her death because he parted with Hitler after quarreling with him about his interference with his romance.

Maurice, like many Germans, doubts that Hitler ever had physical love affairs with any woman. Even his publicized romance with Eva Braun is still believed by many Germans to have been "purely platonic."

Some 100 persons were present Tuesday night when impressive installation ceremonies were held at the Ralph Davidson farm for newly named Jeffersonville Lions club members.

Several out-of-town Lions Club officials were on hand for the family picnic and the ceremonies.

Lions District Governor L. Howard Flatter of Osborn-Fairfield gave the principal address. He complimented the Jeff Lions on the outstanding work they have done in that community. Other guests present from outside Jeffersonville were: Carl Spahr, district cabinet secretary; R. L. Carbaugh, a member of the international convention committee, both of Osborn-Fairfield; Harold Lewis, secretary and Lucius Carr, both of the Jamestown club.

Ceremonies Held in Garage

The Jeffersonville Lions men, their ladies and guests were forced to move inside the Davidson garage for the installation ceremonies when rain drove them under cover.

But this didn't stop the enterprising Jeff Lions from holding one of the most impressive installation ceremonies since the club was organized in August, 1947.

Officers who were installed in their offices were as follows:

George T. Combs, president; Ralph Davidson, treasurer; Donald Russell, secretary; Nelson Baker, first vice president; Neil Conner, second vice president; Joe Colegrove, third vice president; Kenneth Walters, Lion Tamer; Carl Stackhouse, tail twister; Dr. Robert Little and Gilbert Coil, newly elected directors.

Flatter announced that C. G. Stuckey, outgoing president of the Jeffersonville club, had been appointed to serve as zone chairman.

Stuckey presented the club with a speakers stand which he made out of solid walnut.

The gallstones sometimes found in cattle are prized by Orientals as good-luck and good-health charms, and sell for $125 per pound.

HEALTHY CHILDREN

SCIENTISTS have proved beyond any question that the health of growing children is dependent upon nutritive values of the food they consume. Also, scientists have shown that proper development of bones, teeth, cartilage requires calcium and magnesium.

The cheapest way to supply these elements is by liming your soil.

Crops and livestock products from limed fields are higher in essential nutrients and through this improvement contribute to the production of our most valuable asset, healthy children.

Business Sound
Despite Slump,
Retailers Told

New Lines Showed
By Manufacturers
At Convention

NEW YORK, June 22—(P)—The current business slump isn't over yet and the end is not in sight, retailers were told, but basic conditions are sound.

That was the theme of many speakers at the mid-year merchandising convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

Milton J. Greenbaum, vice president of Felix Lillenthal & Co. of New York said: "basic market conditions are sound. x x x Actual buying can be approached with a feeling of confidence."

"Manufacturers have prepared their new lines with the determination that through proper styling, proper manufacturing, and proper pricing the consumer must be attracted."

A. W. Zelomek, president of the International Statistical Bureau of New York, in discussing one major segment of the retail business said: "Textiles have generally completed the first and most violent phase of the postwar readjustment."

He added: "having had a lengthy head start upon the general business readjustment, the most thoroughly liquidated textiles can look forward to a fairly steady, if unsensational, replacement activity in many lines even while other industries are going through the wringer."

Louis J. Melick, general merchandise manager of Crowley, Milner & Co. of Detroit, declared: "business isn't so bad. It's just that last year's dollar figures appear so colossal."

He summed up his merchandising advice in four principles for running a store: "1. Find out what people want. 2. Have it. 3. Find out what people don't want. 4. Don't have any of it."

In changing merchandising picture, Melick advised these "sound merchandising principles" for fall: "Keep up assortments and basic stocks. Keep down the number of price lines and number of resources. Buy small. Buy often. This is not the time for plunging. x x x

"Be hot on hot items. Really go to town on items. Items are the plus of your sales this year. Keep your stocks liquid, not frozen. Keep your merchandise moving at a normal rate of speed. x x x

Q. F. Walker, economist of R. H. Macy & Co. of New York said it was obvious the high postwar rate of business expansion could not be maintained and that corrections would have to be made. "These corrections now have been underway for several months. They are spreading over a wider area. And the end is not yet in sight."

He added: "however, a very large part of the broad adjustment in prices of consumer goods has already taken place. But the downward drift of the general price level seems likely to continue. It may well be six to 12 months before we attain a right degree of price balance along a broad economic front."

Accounting Asked
For Union Funds

CLEVELAND, June 22—(P)—Top officers of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers were asked in a court suit yesterday to account for some $6,000,000 in loyalty funds.

CHAPTER ONE

IT WAS, thought Proctor who had a mind for somber things, a perfect day for a funeral. The early March sky, with small veils of cloud shifting across the pale blue, was ready to weep at an appropriate moment. The sunlight was discreetly fitful. Proctor had kept his eye on the weather since early morning, twitching at the red curtains in the library to watch for the first sign of an umbrella. It was as perfect a day as it could be to bury someone you loved—and God knew he loved his sister, Elizabeth.

The sedate mauve crepe that hung on the outside entrance looked well. The gray casket, banked with blue hyacinths and lilies, lay in lovely gloomy shadow in the drawing room. The five pallbearers, he would make the sixth, would carry out their duties with dignity and feeling. He had deliberately chosen the same five men who had been ushers at Elizabeth's coming-out party. There was a melancholy comparison here that pleased him.

Proctor sat down at the large Sheraton desk in the center of the room and for the twentieth time went over his schedule for the afternoon.

Luncheon—12:15 This they had arranged especially early to get the maids quieted before the ceremonies.

Minister: 2:00.
Service: 2:30-3:00.
Drive to Chestnut Hill: Approximately two hours.

After the last notation Proctor had left a blank. He felt it tedious to come right back to tea. Now he wrote in "talk to Katherine." He skipped another blank to allow for passage of time and wrote "B. Hall to dinner." Benjamin Hall was the family lawyer. His wife would not be present, which meant there would be no social talk and they could get right down to details. He gave a long sigh to relieve his impatience.

To nervous to plan or think further, he leaned back in his chair and surveyed the room. With the exception of the desk which he had bought at a private auction, everything was the same as it had been in his father's time. The two longer sides of the room were shelved with books reaching half way up the wall. Above these, the walls were covered with dark red damask, not a warm, but a muddy color. The room was filled with Victorian relics.

Here on Sunday afternoons his father had read to him from Lamb's Tales. He must remember to read them this year to Katherine. Here he had come each Saturday to receive his allowance because he had gone to college. It all seemed so long ago, he felt suddenly old, though he was only a little over forty. Desperately, he turned back to a younger time. Here he and father had planned Elizabeth's coming-out party. He did not remember having seen Elizabeth much in this room. He reined his thoughts in abruptly. "I shouldn't be wool-gathering like this," he said half aloud. "I should feel more about her—but I'm numb. I can't. He slid down in his chair, extending his legs and dropping his head forward a little in an effort to relax."

Suddenly he was startled by the door bell—not as a friend of the family would ring once gently a longer twice—but sharp ring on ring his heart jumped. This was what he had been dreading all morning. This was the crack in his shell of numbness. So Marvell had gotten his telegram. He pushed his chair back, he would answer the door himself. The maids were busy with other things.

The door felt heavier than it ever had as Proctor swung it open. Marvell had come. He stood in the doorway, his right shoulder slumped a little against the fluttering crepe. He was hatless and carried a white box—not flowers, Proctor sensed this immediately. This was a flat, squat box that could only mean French pastry.

"Hello, Proctor."

"Come in," said Proctor, holding back the door.

Marvell bowed his head as gracefully as if he had received a word of welcome. He stepped unsteadily inside. Proctor smelled the sharp odor of whiskey at once. Drinking again, he thought bitterly. His body was taut with dislike and disgust.

"We expected you earlier. You received my telegram?"

"Bad weather in Rochester," Marvell's voice boomed in the muffled quiet. He held out the pastry box with a sweeping gesture. "For my daughter." Proctor saw that one side of it was dented in. He took it gingerly.

"Your bags?"

"Checked." Probably in some pawnshop, thought Proctor contemptuously. Marvell stumbled over the table that stood against one dim wall. "Why don't you have some light in here?"

"Katherine," Proctor went on in lower tones than before. "is asleep. Emily is with her. We'll go right up to the library."

"Lead kindly light," and the first line of the hymn was accompanied by a faint niccough. A shudder of distaste ran through Proctor. How insufferably cheap the man was. God in heaven, don't let him be a disgrace till it's over, he prayed. His hands were clammy on the awful box of cakes. He didn't know where to put it and he would not go down to the maids with it.

Once in the library, Proctor measured the waste paper basket with a wary eye. It wasn't big enough. Marvell rescued his box.

"Careful," he admonished. "These are the best I got 'em at Henri's."

"New York?" asked Proctor sharply. "Why didn't you come straight to Boston?"

"Bad weather in Rochester," Marvell repeated in a tone that indicated he was through with further explanations. "Sit down please." Proctor's attitude was that of an employer interviewing a prospective clerk. He himself remained standing to maintain what advantage he could. It didn't nate him so, thought Proctor, he could manage him. He can't go to the service. He can't go to the cemetery. Damn the decency that had prompted his telegram. Damn the man who made him so impotent with shame and hatred. He glanced at the clock. Twenty minutes to two. Marvell sat down in a leather armchair near the desk, the pastry box on his knees. He wore that look of deceptive docility of a child who awaits a mild scolding. "Am I in time for the funeral?"

Proctor disliked to admit that he was. "The funeral is at 2:30. The interment is to be at Chestnut Hill." And this, he noted most to say—"Do you wish to see Elizabeth?"

"No!" The word shot out with a vehemence that matched Proctor's intensity. "The whole thing is barbaric."

"There is such a thing as common decency," answered Proctor stiffly who couldn't resist getting in the last word. His voice sounded thin and reedy next to Marvell's. "In that case, perhaps you don't wish to go to the service."

Marvell raised one eyebrow slightly. "As her husband I shall do my best to keep the Barlow standard out of the dust. 'Woot weep? Woot fight? Woot fast?' he quoted loudly.

"Ssh. Do be quiet!"

"How about a hospitable drink, Proctor?" Marvell ventured. That would be the easiest way out, Proctor decided. He walked over to the sideboard. His hand shook slightly as he poured about four inches of whiskey into a glass.

"Water?"

"Straight. I thank you." He drank it quickly and turned accusingly to his brother-in-law. "I would have come sooner if you had told me Elizabeth was so sick. Three months ago she looked fine. I couldn't be in two places at once, you know. Everything I have done out there in hotels and boarding houses, never seeing your daughter."

"Now it would begin, thought Proctor, the string of lies, the loud arguments. The last time Marvell had been home was after Thanksgiving. He had stayed less than twelve hours, and not even seen Katherine because of his "condition."

Marvell made an effort to continue. His mind was fuzzy. He was unable to stall off the drowsiness brought on by the warmth of the room.

"Since you have such an aversion to funerals, Marvell, I suggest you remain here to sleep if possible."

"No, I'm going to be there. But I'll take twenty winks now if we have time—uh?"

ficers named in the suit. It marked the second time in less than a month officers of the brotherhood had been sued over management of union funds.

The latest suit was filed in common pleas court by Fred L. Spence, Keithsburg, Ill., and "all other" holders of loyalty certificates.

The plaintiffs said the union sold, $6,000,000 worth of certificates over a 20-year-period and now wants the holders to surrender them for loyalty buttons. The petitioners also asked that funds be liquidated with the proceeds going toward redemption of the certificates.
